Titusville Morning Herald.

This is the only paper between Pittsburgh and Erie that receives the Associated Press Telegrams and Cable Dispatches.

Titusville, Saturday, March 14, 1868.

(HEADINg MATTER ON EVERY PAGE)

BUSINESS MEN.

The Titusville MORNING HERALD has now a circulation of nearly ONE THOUSAND COPIES in Crawford and Venango counties. Hence Business Men can see at once its peculiar advantages as an advertising medium. They can thus present their invitations to buy to the very class of readers who have the money to buy with, and who are sure to seek that market which seems to present the most inducements. The only way for business men to increase their business and attract custom is to let the public know what they have to sell, and familiarize the public eye with their names and business location. This can only be done by constant and judicious advertising.

Varieties.

The Republican ward dances will be held this evening. The announcements will be found in another column.

The Kaukeet Oil Company's property near Petroleum City is being leased, and operations have been commenced on three or four wells.

The Democrats of the Second Ward have nominated George S. Stewart for Councilman. It behoves the Republicans to make an equally good selection, if they wish to roll up their usual majority.

Wayne McVeigh of West Chester, Penn., has been retained by Secretary Stanton to appear for him in conjunction with Messrs. Carpenter and Riddle in all suits of Gen. Thomas or the President against him.

The oil terrain in the vicinity of the Spiritual well is being purchased by parties who intend to develop it during the next three or four months. The tract of territory last sold in the vicinity, brought $1,200 per acre.

Yesterday a warrant was issued by Justice Douglass at Petroleum Center, for the apprehension of Ed Spencer, of Tarr Farm on the charge of having committed an assault with a hatchet no C. D. Lapp of the same place.

Yesterday morning about four o'clock a wooden building situated under the bluff and opposite the oil yard in Oil City, caught fire and was almost entirely destroyed. The building was occupied as a saloon and by two families as a dwelling house. The loss will not reach over $500.

—There is no cessation in the work of building up the towns of Shamburgh and Atchison, on Upper Cherry Run, and rapidly have buildings been erected that the appearance of the town has been wholly changed within the past month. The time made in putting up these buildings may at least be considered fair when it is understood that it varies from twenty-four hours to ten days, according to the size of the building, the wants of the proprietor and the state of the weather.

The TEMPLAR ANNIVERSARY last evening was a thoroughly delightful affair. The hall was completely filled by a select audience of ladies and gentlemen, and considerable regret was expressed that a more commodious place had not been secured for the entertainment.

W. S. Morris, Esq., the present W. C. T. of the lodge, presided. The introductory address by Mr. H. M. Hall was both entertaining and for clapping, and was received with warm applause. The exercises were chiefly musical, both vocal and instrumental. Miss Humphrey presided at the piano with acknowledged grace and effect. Mr. Alfred Coleman's performances on the violin were repeatedly encoreed, and he fairly surprised himself. Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Burts and Mr. Chas. P. Burts sang several of their favorite trios, as usual, with rapturous effect. There were besides several choruses, and a vocal and instrumental performance by Mr. W. H. Towler which were received with decided approbation.

Prof. Leatherfengus delivered in his inimitable way, a scientific discourse which not only convulsed the audience, but through an unhappy experiment, hoisted the lecturer by his own petard. In other parlance it was a perfect "cockolager."

The Secretary was unable, on account of sickness, to present his annual report; but we shall publish it as a matter of public interest.

A NEW IDEA.—Burlingame, our Minister to China, has thrown up his position, and perhaps his plan is to establish Great Western Tea Agency in this country. Since Granger & Co. have established their Great Western Tea Agency here, our relations with China have been very friendly, and the consumption of this delightful beverage has mightily increased in Titusville and the oil regions. No one is satisfied with one cup, but like Dr. Johnson wants more, but it is pure, harmless, stimulating without being exciting, and very delicately flavored. Speaking of the demand, Granger & Co. got an invoice of five hundred chests yesterday, and to-day it is to be distributed in quantities to suit customers at their store. How many gallons there may be in five hundred chests we don't know, but as every thing is estimated in dollars and cents, we may state that the lot cost $30,000, more than the whole city debt of Titusville. We can well believe that China has thrown down her walls, and opened her ports to the outside world, when our town and country consume Tea so rapidly. Go and "take tea" with Granger & Co.

MANY of those who have visited the Canadian side of Niagara Falls within a few years, will have a keen recollection of outrageous frauds perpetrated by the keepers of certain establishments on that side of the river, and of the system of terrorism by which those frauds were made possible. The Hamiltonian (Canada) Evening Times recently denounced the "Table Rock House," as one of those establishments where American visitors were swindled and bullied, and the result has been a libel suit. The Times, with a pluck that is to be commended, proposed to defend the suit with vigor, and ask any American who can give facts in support of the charges of swindling or violence against the proprietor or attaches of the Table Rock House to communicate with the editor of the Evening Times, Hamilton, Ontario.

THE PETROLEUM TAX.—A meeting of the Philadelphia Petroleum Association was held on the 10th inst., at which resolutions were adopted endorsing the action of the Petroleum National Convention, at Pittsburgh, and declaring "that till the tax shall be entirely removed we are entirely opposed to any additional regulations that would add expense to oil in bond, and that we are especially opposed to the stamp tax being proposed to be placed on refined oil for exorcise."

On motion of Mr. Theo. E. Tack, it was resolved that a committee be appointed to proceed to Washington to act in concord with the committee appointed by the National Convention. Mr. H. King, G. A. Grimes, J. F. Lagan, and W. D. Nichols were placed on the committee.

W. H. Nichols & Co., Petroleum Centre, and McCormick & Nichols, of Shamburgh, are authorized agents to receive subscriptions to the MORNING HERALD for short as well as long terms, as our published rates.

Candidates and Principles.

The Democratic party are bewildered to find an available candidate to pit against Grant, and they are also in a most deplorable muddle about a platform of principles to be adopted. Johnson would like to foist himself upon them, but they justly fear he would be a dead weight to their party. Of course they censure all that Congress has done, or has failed to do, but Johnson's controversies with Congress have degenerated into personal squabbles; they are evidently the fruit of self-will and obstinacy, and that party don't like to take sides with him. And, lastly, the verdict of New Hampshire in favor of impeachment has sealed Johnson's fate, as an available candidate, for the Presidential succession. The people very clearly do not look upon the President as a martyr, or Congress as his persecutors. They regard his impeachment as a strictly Constitutional and legally justifiable proceeding.

Hancock has been loudly deplored by Democratic priests, of late, but to use a vulgar but expressive phrase, he quite "stopped over" the other day, by riding in a couch in the public streets of New Orleans, with Jeff Davis, both being the recipient of rampant cheers from "the unreconstructed." As for Pendleton, the very causes that make him popular in the West, proclaims and destroy his chances in the East.

As we said before, there seems to be no line of party, on which the party, East and West can unite in harmony.

For six months past the Democratic papers, especially at the West have been making all the political capital possible out of our National debt, and out of the burdens of taxation. Some of their journals come out squarely for repudiation. Others demand that the 52 bonds shall not be paid principal or interest in gold but in greenbacks.

They go on the assumption that if they can touch the people's pockets, they can catch their votes. They have tried to make out that the bondholders are an aristocracy and that they are fighting the battles of the common people.

Now, without stopping to argue the question at this stage, let us see in this very connection what Horatio Seymour, who speaks for the Democracy of the great State of New York, says on this point. Mr. Seymour is a very subtle man and uses words as much to conceal as to exhibit his meaning. He is always full of suavity in saying the hardest things, but no one who reads his speech at Albany before the Democratic State Convention, will there on Wednesday, can fail to see that the Democratic party of that State has thrown Pendleton overboard and do not propose to make their platform to suit his ideas at all.

I deem it my duty to speak frankly on the subject of the debt. We owe it to our friends in other States to let them know our position, so that we may not fall into the fatal error of making sectional questions a part of our national platform. This would, with justice, repeat each of us, that to bind the nation in such a bond to this great State, which must be bound to our country is lost. We have issued money with the party in power, upon which we think as one man, to overwhelm it with disgrace and defeat. We must not distract our counsels with questions, however important they may be, upon which there is so much of doubt and which cannot be settled in many years to come.

Mr. Seymour is quite right here. This whole discussion of the bond question is premature, for the five-twentieths do not mature till 1882, when when they will become due and payable. Mr. Seymour says a good deal more to the same effect:

We must not then turn away the public mind from the dangers which threaten the immediate destruction of the fabric of our Government and the liberties of the people. Even now the hand of usurpation is stretched out to rob us of our rights, and it must be struck down. First of all, whatever our views may be, the payment of this debt will fall upon the future. Do what we may, in this mode, and that without regard to anything else, it will come after we will decide to do it, and then it will be too late to do it. We have assumed an appearance of life which will prevail even the most hopeless. Stores, built of wood, brick, and stone, sprung into existence as if in a dream. Hotels were built and filled in a week. Saloons, gay, gaudy, and incongruous, were opened in every hand. Dwelling houses came in for their share of attention. Banks, publishing offices, places of business of all kinds, arose on all sides until to-day Cheyenne has claims to a population of 8,000 (I think that 5,000 or 6,000 would not be out of the way), and all done within five months.

Cheyenne is 618 miles west of Omaha, 110 miles north of Denver, 550 miles east from Salt Lake City, 30 miles east of the highest point of the road in crossing the Black Hills, not the highest point of the Rocky Mountains as we read, but 100 miles east from the highest point of the Rocky Mountains, 180 miles east from the Colorado River, 50 miles: 120 miles west from the first point of irrigation on the Colorado River, 100 miles west from the first point of irrigation on the Arkansas River, 150 miles west from the first point of irrigation on the South Pass, Sweetwater and Wind River regions, all of which will be of great benefit to the place in future. It is true that Cheyenne is located at the base of the mountains—notwithstanding it is hard to see it—especially if you happen to look while in the city; for it is at this point that begins the grand grade or ascent of the mountains, which, according to the survey, extends up to the mile, but at no place reaches over 80 feet.

We could hardly expect a city only 6 months old to boast of first-class hotels, banks, &c. But it is true that Cheyenne has one good hotel, and another building—135 feet square, five stories high—cost $147,000, three banks, three daily, tri-weekly, and weekly newspapers—and well supported at that—first-class stone and brick stores; fire-proof warehouses; fine dwellings; a good school house; stocks of goods which cost $100,000, and a large amount of gold, silver, and goldsmiths' work—such as gold, silver, and gold jewelry, some twenty or more bolts of more or less pretensions, and everything else in the building line which one would expect to find in a city of six or eight thousand inhabitants. The buildings of Cheyenne are estimated to have cost more than $3,000,000, which I should think a fair estimate. The city is the present terminus of the U. P. R. R., or at least trains run no further, although the road is completed 23 miles further west.

BUILDING ASSOCIATIONS.—The people of various Western cities are organizing co-operative building associations with a view to furnish people of moderate means with homes at moderate rates. The idea is a good one. If such associations were formed and the money loaned to the members at a moderate rate of interest, scores of laboring men could thus provide themselves with homes in a few years, who otherwise would never own a shingle. Building associations in Eastern cities have frequently been organized, but seldom become successful in practice because they do not think it right to charge a premium to build a house to meet the cost of insurance, and to have to make that premium as good as gold, with the position of those who must not only pay in paper, but who are also destroying the value of that paper. This is repudiation. We are not trying to give paper to the bondholder, but gold and silver to the people.

So, then, the West is given to understand that if it wishes to join in a crusade against the public faith and credit, it will get no help or sympathy from the Democratic party of the State of New York. Without that State, the Democrats, as a matter of course, can not hope to "Save the country" next fall, as Seymour calls it, and therefore Pendleton will be sacrificed, and his plan of flooding the country with thousands of millions of greenbacks to be repudiated. This is feasible. This is honest. The real question next fall is Reconstruction, the justice of keeping eleven States out till they come remodeled as Congress has prescribed.
